

CELEBRATE EARTH WEEK

by learning about plant and animal life cycles in the desert!

Join USA National Phenology Network for the First Annual

PHENOLOGY DAY!

Saturday, April 20, 2013

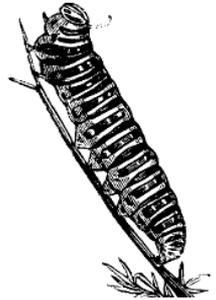

SCHEDULE OF EVENTS (Show up for the whole day or just a part!)

Time	Activity	Where
8:00 am	Pima Master Gardener Plant Sale	University of Arizona
9:00 am	Welcome and overview of Phenology Trail in Tucson	Cooperative Extension 4210 N. Campbell Road Tucson, AZ 85719
9:45 am	Phenology Walk
10:30 am	Depart for other Phenology Sites	Biosphere 2 Audubon Mason Center UA Campus Arboretum
12:30 pm	USA-NPN talk about Phenology research over lunch	USA-NPN Office 1955 6th St. Tucson, AZ
1:00 pm	Tour Phenology Trail in Sam Hughes and Rincon Heights	Sam Hughes & Rincon Heights Neighborhoods
2:30 pm	Photo show and ice cream	USA-NPN Office 1955 6th St.

More information: 520-622-0363 | arthur@usanpn.org
www.meetup.com/Tucson-Phenology-Trail | www.nn.usanpn.org

Celebrate the first annual “Phenology Day” on April 20th, 2013 and the unveiling of the Rincon Heights Neighborhood Trail! The Rincon Heights Phenology Trail will educate participants about the study of seasonal life cycle events highlighting plant and insect interactions including special attention to native insect behavior.

Take note of the path on the interactive Google map: <http://goo.gl/maps/e1JZT>
Come out and learn more Saturday, April 20th.

Please look for these tags in a neighborhood near you:

